Gifford Rec To Be Made Dining Room

FOOD PROBLEMS SOLVED FOR MEN

Annex to Accommodate 90 Additional Men

To provide eating quarters for the influx of 134 new men to the college at the start of the spring semester on February 18, a new annex dining hall is now being set up in the Gifford recreation room. Eighty to ninety men will be fed in the new dining room while the remainder of the men's college will continue to eat regularly in the main Gifford commons.

Shortages Increase

The increasing shortages of meat, butter, fish and general difficulties in food transportation have caused a problem in procuring foodstuffs to feed the student population which last year partook of 334,000 meals and has already consumed more than 123,000 meals this term. James H. Howarth, dining hall manager, travels several hundred miles each week to procure the thousands of tons of food called for in the balanced menus prepared daily by Mrs. Muriel L. Reese, an accredited dietitian.

Statistics on Meals

Last year the college farm furnished students with 307,600 quarts of milk, and they drank 12,760 gallons of fruit juices and ate 6,880 loaves of bread, 48,000 coffee rolls, 16,200 doughnuts, 972,000 eggs, 64,000 pieces of French toast, 60,000 individual hot cakes covered with syrup, 3,000 pounds of salmon, 22,500 pounds of other fish and 2,500 pounds of beans.

Among the other goods purchased for the dining halls were 11,850 pounds of roast beef, 9,000 pounds of cold meats, 3,500 pounds of corned beef, 3,600 pounds

Men Arrange New Undergrad Charter

Financial Report Given On Monetary Reserves Of Undergrad Treasury

A new constitution for the Men's Student Government became effective January 8, 1946. Passed at the Assembly meeting of December 4, 1945, the constitution was presented to and accepted by the Student Life committee on January 8.

Becomes Effective

At the last meeting of the Men's Assembly on Sunday, January 13, speaker, Lewis G. Ensinger '46, read a letter from the Editor of the CAMPUS requesting the transfer of $158.43 from the CAMPUS reserve to cover expenses involved in the purchase of new equipment. The proposal was voted upon and passed unanimously.

The Speaker then appointed Roger L. Bean '48, and Fred B. Johnston '48, to serve as an election committee to supervise the election of a new Men's Undergraduate President for the term beginning February 18, 1946. The Assembly agreed that a preliminary ballot be run January 15, 1946, with the final election to be held January 31, 1946. Details were left to the discretion of the committee.

Mr. Robert S. Goell '49, and Mr. Johnston were designated to submit a written report to the Dean of Men regarding the food situation in Gifford Hall. At a special meeting called January 13, 1946, a letter was read from the Dean of Men's Office saying that a list of suggestions for changes at Gifford dining hall, as suggested by the Men's Assembly, was being forwarded to the Business Manager with a strong recommendation that they be put into effect at once if possible.

Mr. Hugh H. Mathews '47, Mr. Charles A. Scott '47, and Mr. Edward B. Valpy '48, were appointed to serve on a committee to work in conjunction with

Drama of Wild Sycamore Family Begins Carnival Week-end Tonight

Barbara L. Parcher

At the dress rehearsal of the Kaufman-Hart comedy, "You Can't Take It With You," make-up men and critics alike were struck with the spirit of the Sycamore family, publicly introduced on Thursday, January 17.

The mad hilarity of the fast-moving Carnival play caught hold of the mixed audience at the preview. Despite the fact that almost anything goes in such a performance, events went along at a fairly rapid pace.

The set is a most remarkable duplicate of the original. Scenes take place in that species of room which could serve for any and every purpose including snake-charming, fire-cracking, and inspiration for creative genius, straight from the heart.

Large and Skilled Cast

The cast is a large and talented one, each with his share of humor and confusion. Included are several veterans from performances of "The Male Animal" and "Death Takes a Holiday."

Mr. Irwin K. French seems to hold the record when it comes to line memorization. A former actor in The Male Animal, he pompously portrays in this play the stuffy Mr. Kirby, with Irmgard Nierhaus '47, a versatile old-timer of the Playhouse, as his haughty wife.

Midd's 1946 Winter Carnival to Present 3 Day Weekend of Traditional Festivities

M. Fayer Presents Russian School Summer Plans

Announcement has been made by the administration of a change in policy concerning the work offered by the Russian Summer School which was held at Middlebury for the first time last summer. At that time, an exception to the general Middlebury policy of admitting no beginners for credit work in the summer language schools was made because of the demand for elementary Russian.

Ninety Hours Required

Unprecedented spread of the teaching of elementary Russian and introduction of the subject in an increasing number of schools now makes it possible to place the Russian Summer School on an equal basis with Middlebury's other language schools. No more beginners will be accepted, and the courses will be planned for more advanced work. At least ninety hours of class instruction in a collegiate institution are now required for admission into the Russian school.

Courses will be offered with credits for an M.A. degree and a Doctorate of Modern Languages with a major in Russian on the same basis as in the other language schools.

Mr. Fayer, Director

Mischa H. Fayer, professor of Russian at Middlebury, will continue his work as director of the summer school. Miss Marie Tolstoy, granddaughter of the famous Russian writer, will again be a member of the faculty.

Mr. Aron S. Pressman and his wife, Anastasia Feodorova Pressman, both of whom are connected with the American-Russian Institute, have been appointed to the instructing staff of the summer school. Olga Abramovna Lang, a Russian writer and translator, has also been appointed.

Hillcrest and the Chi Psi Lodge have been chosen as dormitories for students who will attend the Russian school this coming summer.

Atom Bomb Letter Gets Official Reply

Communication from the Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion, in regard to the letter concerning the Atomic Bomb recently sent in by S.A.A., has been received in the office of President Samuel S. Stratton.

After stating that the petition had been received by the President, the letter continued: "How best to insure the use of this vast force to promote the peace of the world and preserve the interests and the safety of our own people are problems to which the Administration will devote the most careful and unremitting attention. They are problems of tremendous difficulty, but they must be solved, as the President has stated, if we are to look to the future with confidence.

"You may be certain that your suggestions will be given careful consideration."

Twenty-five faculty members, 30 members of the administration and 501 students signed the petition sent to the President, expressing concern over the threat to world security presented by the Atomic Bomb. The undersigned urged immediate and complete control of the atomic power by the United Nations Organization, and that the United States, as a leading nation, should support this proposal to instill and promote confidence in the international organization.

Carnival Co-Chairman

Midd Ski Events To Be Reported From Press Unit

Ski events for the 1946 Winter Carnival will be covered this year by on-the-scene reporters from leading east coast newspapers and will be telegraphed from a Carnival Press room that is now being set up in the converted ski shop at the Middlebury Inn.

Arranged by the College Press Bureau, the press room will be staffed by regular Western Union telegraph agents, with two Morse key units available for correspondents from the New York Times and Tribune, Boston Herald, Globe and American and from the Burlington Free Press. Coverage will probably be given by the Rutland Herald but as yet no word has been received from that paper by the College Press office.

Frank Elkins of the New York Times is a veteran of Middlebury's Carnival season and of general winter sports on the eastern seaboard. Other leading sports writers who will be present are: Fred Hawthorne of the New York Tribune, Henry Moore of the Boston Herald, Pat Harty of the Boston Globe, "Tap" Goodenough from the Boston American, and Walter Hickey of the Burlington Free Press. All visiting reporters, with the exception of Mr. Elkins who will be lodged at the Middlebury Inn, have rooms reserved for them at the Waybury Inn.

CONSTITUTIONAL REVIEW PLANNED FOR MEN, WOMEN

Joint review of the constitutions of both men's and women's colleges has been proposed by the former, it was announced in Women's assembly meeting, Sunday, January 13, in Forest West living room. Points which differ in the two constitutions are to be made similar to facilitate future legislation.

Winter Hitch-hiking

President Barbara L. Grigg '46, informed the assembly representatives that as Dean Millicent C. Woodward feels that winter hitch-hiking is not desirable, women are not to do so in the future. Virginia M. Knudsen '48, volunteered to work in conjunction with a committee from the men's undergraduate association on a system of exchange Sunday dinners which members of the Men's college have several times requested.

The social committee is making plans for a house directors' and house presidents' tea to be held in the near future. In a message from Ruth W. Temple, assistant dean of women, it was requested

Ski Events Head Sports Activities

Klondike Rush, Ball, Play To Highlight Social Program

Carnival festivities will begin tonight at 8.15 with the presentation of the play, You Can't Take It With You, to be given in the High School gymnasium. Tomorrow morning and early afternoon, the women contestants will compete in the downhill and the slalom.

Carnival Awards

From 4.00 to 6.00 p.m. on Friday, the Rally will be held in Forest Rec. during which time the awards for the poster contest and the snow sculptures will be presented. Under the guidance of Adrienne C. Northam '47 and Beverly B. Boynton '48, Midd songs will be sung and coffee will be served to warm the spectators and contestants. There will be no admission charge, and in view of the fact that the three-day holiday will be in full swing, there should be much enthusiasm and gaiety at the rally.

The Klondike Rush, to be held Friday night from 9.00 to 1.00, and the Carnival Ball, which takes place Saturday night from 8.00 to 12.00, will compose the main part of the social activities.

Downhill Slalom

Saturday morning and afternoon, the men skiers will hold their downhill and slalom. Preparations for the skiing events have entailed much hard work. Both Midd men and women have spent a great deal of their time packing the trails and jumps. As much free time as possible was allowed those men not on probation to go up to the jumps to shovel and pack the snow. The women also helped in the packing.

At 9.00 a.m. on Sunday the cross-country begins and 10.30 a.m. the Frolic will take place in Forest Rec. The decorations will be in the form of a ski lodge. Coffee, milk, and doughnuts make up the refreshments and records will be played to which the students may dance. Tentative plans are being made to show ski movies at the frolic. There will be group singing, with Jeannette A. Winans '48, giving accompaniment on the piano.

Sunday afternoon at 2.00 the jumping will begin on Chipman Hill, and at 6.00 the ski prizes will be awarded in Forest Rec.

Skating Show

The Skating show at 8.00 Sunday night will conclude the Carnival activities. A pair of professional champion skaters, Jackie Sawyer and Hope Taylor from Boston, will take part in the show. They will do one number together and each will skate a single. Other dances will include a single by Grace E. God-

Ross, Rutland Doctor, Elected Term Trustee

Dr. Stewart Ross, a physician and surgeon of Rutland, has recently been elected a Term Trustee of Middlebury College for a term of five years, starting July 1, 1946.

A Middlebury graduate of 1920, Dr. Ross was first elected to the Corporation by the Alumni, from June, 1936 to June, 1941.

A great enthusiast for the Mountain Club and the ski teams, Dr. Ross helped make possible the donation of the Middlebury ski wagon. The Winter Carnival Ball committee is honored to welcome Dr. and Mrs. Ross as patron guests at their dance on Saturday evening.

This '46 Carnival

So much has been written and said about Winter Carnival—past and present—that there is little of meaning left that has not been adequately expressed. Nineteen forty-six Carnival has, however, several significant aspects which deserve written attention.

This is our first peace-time Carnival in four years. For that we are all grateful; indeed, appreciation of this fact brings the realization that the privilege of having a college life that includes a winter carnival is one of the many little things that we were fighting for. Then too, a return to peace-time conditions and the lifting of war-time restrictions has enabled us to have a more elaborate and memorable Carnival than was possible the last two or three years. Many Middlebury students who remember pre-war Carnivals and all they implied are back, and for them the 1946 Carnival holds more promise than perhaps any other they have seen. For some of them, this is the last Carnival they will participate in, and for all of them it typifies the Middlebury they left and came back to.

For a larger portion of students, the 1946 Winter Carnival is the first taste of one of Middlebury's most famous traditions. They have heard a lot about every aspect of the week-end's activities and have listened to stories about other carinvals. This week-end holds great expectations for them. Many will compare what they find with what they have already learned about Middlebury Carnivals. It is inevitable that they will find some things quite different. The importation of men is a novel feature of this Carnival that was never necessary before and may never be necessary again. The unfortunate date problem should not automatically spoil the chances for the success of this week-end, however, before it has even started. Carnival is so much bigger to everyone collectively that the best must be made of this condition with the surety that "things will be different next year."

More than anything else, this Winter Carnival represents a new Carnival for everyone who will attend it. Co-chairmen Ray Sacher and Emmy Cushing have done a superb job of planning and solving staggering problems. Working for a bigger Carnival than ever, they have faced the problems of clearing Breadloaf trails, housing and feeding a large number of extra people, and taking care of the countless details involved in presenting a program that includes a play, ski meets, an informal dance, a formal dance, a skating show, and a frolic. At the last minute they had the task of importing a huge quantity of snow for the ski jump.

The unprecedented cooperation with which all of this work was done is indicative of a real spirit in the college that will carry the biggest Carnival that the students have ever planned to success. Every bit of individual effort that has been spent on the plans already has been appreciated by the chairmen of the committees that have tried to carry out all of the new ideas that have been suggested, and with this beginning there is no doubt that the cooperation and enthusiasm will increase as the week-end gets under way.

Nothing has been left undone to prepare for the 1946 Winter Carnival, and now it is up to all of us to see that we do not fail the ski teams who represent us, the people who have worked long and hard, and the several hundred imports, guests, competitors and families who are looking forward to Carnival. And we must not forget that this Carnival is ours, planned for our pleasure. Let's have fun!

YOUR LIBRARY

He Wrote "For Antiquity"

"Damn the age; I will write for antiquity." Who today would say that? And in the span of years from 1775 to 1834, too, it must have seemed a curious ambition for a young author, even one whose authorship was but a leisure-time relaxation from his duties as a clerk. No matter. For the pages redolent of an earlier age have only gained in charm, and those on subjects then contemporary have taken on a similar grace. To certain readers of our day, those small volumes written "for antiquity" stand high on the roll of English literature.

Backgrounds

The very names of the streets and buildings in which the author lived and studied and worked have glamour for us. The Temple, Christ's Hospital, the South Sea House, India House, King's Bench Walk. The Temple gave him an array of characters for one of his better-known essays; the chamber of his father's employer there was open, with its well-chosen library, to the lad and his sister. Christ's Hospital, "the blue-coat school," offered him more formal education and the theme of another popular piece.

The monotony of a clerkship in first the South Sea House, then India House, made it possible for the young lover of books and men to help support his sister and parents, and later, when tragedy had struck at the family, to assume entirely the care of his sister.

In temporary madness, Mary had injured her father and killed her mother. The periods of mania would often return. But her brother refused to have her committed to an asylum.

Marriage Sacrifice

For her sake he sacrificed all hope of marriage. The only children he was ever to have were the "Dream Children" described in one of his most delicate essays. Instead of a wife, he had the companionship of "Bridget Elia," this being the

R. MARTIN READS WINNIE THE POOH, THURBER STORY

Three tales from A. A. Milne's Winnie The Pooh, and The Princess and the Tin Box from James Thurber's Fairy Tales for Our Times were the selections read by Miss Rose E. Martin at the Abernethy Reading in the library last Friday, January 11.

It has become customary for Miss Martin to read selections from Winnie the Pooh since the founding of the Spanish house when the only English allowed spoken in the living room was the reading of these tales.

A. A. Milne received the idea for these stories by telling them to his son, Christopher Robin, using as characters the child's toys. Says Miss Martin, "Although the stories are primarily for children, they are enjoyed by people of all ages for their delightful characterizations."

Miss Martin's readings were illustrated by small wooden figures brought from England representing the characters found in the stories.

Burton's Student Tours Offers Trips To Mexico With Summer Courses

The Burton Student Tours have announced a summer educational trip to Mexico, offering eight weeks of summer courses at the National University with all credits transferable to other colleges.

This offer is open to college students and high school seniors, but as groups are limited to 20 members, the applicants are advised to apply for membership before February 15, 1946.

Students will live in a Spanish environment so they can become acquainted with the life and customs of their neighbors. There will be a program of motor trips arranged for the students' free time. Visits will be made to many places of outstanding historical and educational interest.

Further details may be obtained from the folders which are secured from the tour director, Miss Doris G. Burton, 61 West Grand Street, Mt. Vernon, N. Y.

Dark Mystery Of Starr Hall Easily Solved

Peg Matulis '48

Have you ever wondered what the wooden extension on Starr Hall was for? Do you know who lives in the trailer? Have you ever seen mysterious lights at night in Starr and wondered whether they were ghosts or burglars? Well, I've wondered too, so Saturday morning I proceeded to investigate.

Empty Shell

A man stood measuring the doorway as I approached Starr. "You are working on this building?" I asked timidly, when obviously he was. He was Mr. Harold Fuller, the man in charge of the renovation. He took me inside the dorm. All that remained was a mere shell supplemented by a maze of scaffolding. It was like a cream puff with no filling.

I was taken up four flights of stairs and when I reached the top, I could look down through the maze to the bottom floor and could see the men busy at work. There are about 12 men who work continually on the building.

Unusual Office

Mr. Fuller took me into his office which was unlike any other office I had ever seen. Not only was there a desk and chairs, but also tanks of oxygen and acetylene gas used for welding. He explained that Starr was being renovated to resemble Painter and the work was being done by the Trumball Association, Incorporated. There will be single and double suites to accommodate 68 men. It will probably be finished by next September if enough materials can be obtained.

Mysterious Lights

The mysterious lights were explained by the fact that Mr. Fuller and a watchman have living quarters in the building. The trailer belongs to Mr. Fuller who has lived in it for several years. He has been in construction work for 25 years, building many bridges and air fields in New England.

I was also led into the secret sanctuary of the rear extension. It was quite a disappointment, for all it contained was a cement mixer and a few bags of cement. Certainly there is nothing mysterious or romantic about a cement mixer, but at least I had satisfied my curiosity.

Several Institutions Extend Students Scholarship Aid

Opportunities for fellowships and scholarships have been offered to graduate students and undergraduates by several associations and institutions of higher learning. Middlebury students interested in the following possibilities may find additional information on the bulletin board in Old Chapel.

Rochester Graduate School

The University of Rochester Graduate School is offering fellowships and 40 scholarships in various departments, covering all or part tuition and including a small amount of assisting.

The American Association for University Women provides a fellowship for graduate work in Arts and Sciences.

The University of Chicago has offered fellowships in all departments.

Purdue University will furnish graduate assistanships in Chemistry.

The American Home Economics Association is granting graduate fellowships in Home Economics.

Sorority Scholarships

Delta Delta Delta scholarships are available to juniors and senior women working toward a degree, whether or not they are members of the sorority.

Mt. Holyoke is furnishing scholarships in International Relations.

Graduate assistanships in all fields may be obtained from Syracuse University.

To encourage the study of aeronautical engineering by women, an Aeronautical graduate scholarship for women will be awarded by the Zonta International Organization of executive women.

Education, Child Study

Aside from their regular fellowships and scholarships, Smith College is offering special scholarships in several departments, among which are two fellowships in the departments of education and child study.

The head of the American Association of Librarians predicts a shortage of 18,000 librarians within the next few years, thus creating excellent opportunities for library posts.

NOTICE

The State Education Department at Albany announces that the written examinations for approval of oral work in French, German, Spanish, and Italian will be given here at Middlebury on Friday, February 15, 1946, at 1.15 p.m., in one of the classrooms of the Chateau. All students who wish to be qualified to teach Modern Foreign Languages in the secondary schools of New York State must take this examination. No other examination will be given until August, when Summer School attendance will be a prerequisite for admission to the examination.

Since this year the date for this examination conflicts with some of the College mid-year examinations, students involved are urged to check carefully their own examination schedule and to report any possible conflicts to the Registrar.

A faculty committee has been appointed to study the problem of the reinstatement of general examinations and to make recommendation to the faculty on the subject. As yet nothing has been reported. The committee is as follows: Prof. Raymand H. White, chairman; Asst. Prof. Donald H. Ballou; Assist. Prof. Robert W. Rafuse; Jordan R. Scobie, registrar, ex-officio.

Dr. Braun Advocates Brotherhood of Man

"What man believes in can save the world," said Dr. David Braun of Swarthmore, Pa., the Vesper speaker on Sunday, January 13 in Mead Chapel.

"Man for years has been searching for something to save him—education, inventions and gadgets, but as yet he has found nothing," Dr. Braun added. "Man need not fear man, but what he believes in."

"Religion is an explosive force, but we have not yet found the detonator. The brotherhood of man which we must believe in ourselves, will be our salvation. If we are stealing God's stuff in adopting the atomic bomb, then we must also take from him his great kindness and mercy," he concluded.

Men, Women Ski Teams To Uphold Midd

BILLBOARD

Golf aspirants, send home for your clubs, if you don't have them here. Even if the winter weather prevents playing outside, the driving nets are going to be put up in the Gym soon. And it'll pay off, too; the swing boys have an excellent schedule planned.

Randy Brooks' utility increased to many students when the price dropped from $6 to $4.80. 'Nuff said.

Frank Elkins of the New York Times will be back in Middlebury this week-end, to report on the ski outcome and cover the Carnival in general. He's one of Midd's favorites, so c'mon gang, let's not disappoint him, or any of his colleagues.

The basketball team doesn't win games, but they sure have fun!

"Can I, huh?"

Chuck Mutti displayed some excellent social qualities that heretofore hadn't been known.

Tired Hoopsters Bow at Canton In Fifth Attempt

Last Saturday night at Canton, N. Y., Middlebury's courtsters failed in their fifth straight attempt, in as many starts, bowing to St. Lawrence University 47-30.

Early Lead

It was the Red and White's ball game all the way, as they jumped to an early lead, with Dick Austin dropping two quick baskets, following a free throw by Hawkins, St. Lawrence forward, before Coach Arthur Brown's men could break into the scoring column.

"Corky" Elwell, turning in his best performance of the season, dropped two from the field, but Hannon and Sawchuck kept the St. Lawrence cagers ahead with a basket apiece. At the end of the first ten minutes of play, Midd trailed 10-6.

Frank "Socko" Wurm played well on the defensive, but St. Lawrence continued to outscore Middlebury 10-6 in the second period, to lead at half time 20-12.

No Improvement

With the start of the last half, Midd showed no improvement, as Don Means, Panther forward and usual high scorer, continued to be "cold" and could do no better than one point for the entire game. Means was not alone, since the whole team seemed tired and could not get going, largely because of the game played the previous evening with Clarkson Tech.

St. Lawrence employed a very ragged offense, dependent on setups by Austin and Hawkins, but still Midd's man to man defense could not stop the home town cagers. Midd controlled its opponents' shots off the backboard well enough but either threw the ball away or failed to follow its own attempts at goals in home territory. It seemed as though every time the boys from Canton gained possession of the ball, one of their forwards was in the clear.

This lack of scoring on the part of the Brownmen resulted in a 30-18 score at three quarters and a final score of 47-30.

Elwell and Chuck Mutti, who made four out of five attempts from the gift line, led the Panthers with eight points apiece, while Austin picked up 17 and Hawkins 12.

BASKETMEN END SECOND BATTLE IN INTRAMURALS

Intramurals entered its second phase of competition with basketball as the feature when a superior Off-Campus quintet defeated Gifford's First Floor, a week ago last Tuesday evening.

Chuck Conley and Bob Cosgrove led the winners all the way—the final score being 28 to 9. In the second game of the evening, men representing the Second Floor, who only recently won the volleyball competition, continued their victories as they drubbed the Faculty, 36 to 25, with Chuck Bobertz looping 22 points. "Bobo" Sheehan and "Doc" Weidner starred for the losers, with 10 counters apiece.

Off Campus displayed further power in downing the Faculty 25 to 16, as the latter had difficulty finding the hoop. This contest was marked by a number of rough and tumble episodes, that were thoroughly enjoyed by all, especially the spectators that were in attendance.

The remaining two contests that were played off last week found the Second Floor trouncing Gifford's Third, 24 to 5, while the Fourth Deck held the Fifth Floor, to go on to win 20 to 12.

Once again, it looks like the Second Floor and Off-Campus will battle for the championship, barring other unforeseen circumstances.

Lodge Inventory

Sixty-one dollars was received from the sale of tickets for the Student Union bridge held Saturday, January 12, for the benefit of Martin Van Zaanten, 12-year-old foster child. From the Lodge inventory, several miscellaneous items were divided between the Men's and Women's student associations. A victrola, a set of dishes, and several ping-pong balls are now the property of the Women's college.

The committee from the Women's assembly for the constitution review includes Helen A. Prentice '47, chairman, M. Sue Cooke '48, and Joan Tyler '48.

Clarkson's Five Defeats Panthers 70-36 at Potsdam

Taking an early edge and maintaining it throughout, Coach Hank Hodge's Clarkson basketball team triumphed over Middlebury College last Friday night, 70 to 36, in a game played at Potsdam, N. Y.

Narrow Margin

The closest the Blue and White ever came to Hodge's quintet, was in the first quarter, when the winners had a margin of only 8 to 6. Don Means, Midd forward, found the hoop consistently from the gift line and the field, but the Panthers could not keep pace with Clarkson's Green and Gold, as Farmer and Mulvaney led the attack, chalking up four baskets apiece in the first half. When the whistle blew ending the first quarter, Coach Arthur Brown's hoopsters were on the short end of a 16 to 8 tally.

Score at half-time found Middlebury trailing 27 to 20, as Clarkson broke through the visitor's shifting zone defense to score time and again.

New Team

Following the intermission, Coach Brown inserted a complete new team, comprised of Carr and Lindner at forwards, Larry Ziff at center, with Prescott and Wolfley at the back court posts. This combination could do no better, as they found Clarkson scoring, almost at will, and experienced difficulty in working the ball in, or even following their own shots from the field. Once again Don Mulvaney led Clarkson's attack, this time with the cooperation of sharp shooting Bob Hyde, who tossed in ten points in less than nine minutes of play. Hodge substituted freely, whereas Midd's second team stayed in the whole last half, with the exception of Chuck Mutti, who took Ziff's position, only after the latter had been forced from the contest, due to five fouls.

Third String

Clarkson increased its lead to 52 to 26, at the end of the third frame and though Hodge put his third stringers on the hardwoods, they nevertheless continued to rack up points, led this time by Luciano, who scored twice on setups through the center.

Means looped ten points and Ziff six, to lead Middlebury's scoring. Mulvaney and Farmer, who led Clarkson's scoring in the game played here in Middlebury on December 12, repeated their performances, by scoring 16 and 13 points.

Plans for Tennis, Golf Teams Made

Tentative plans for regular seasons in both tennis and golf are now being made by Coach Arthur M. Brown, including a six-man (six singles and three doubles) squad in tennis and a four-man team of golf.

Spring Schedule

Home and home matches have already been arranged in tennis with both Clarkson and St. Lawrence and the coach has received correspondence from the athletic department at Williams college requesting a match some time in the spring schedule, which will begin in the early part of May and continue until graduation in June. Another tentative match has been arranged with RPI on Middlebury's home courts.

Sufficient Material

From the numerous questions from men in college concerning the possibility of a tennis squad, Coach Brown feels confident that there is sufficient material on campus to warrant preparing a schedule. Felix G. Rohatyn '48, is of semi-professional standing in tennis circles, while Seabury Short, a Midd serviceman returning next semester, is also a top player. As in winter sports, Coach Brown plans to conduct an intramural schedule together with regular team competition.

Golf matches have already been tentatively arranged with Clarkson and St. Lawrence, with tourneys also pending

Fraser, Cremer to Captain in Fifteenth Annual Ski Tournament on Midd Slopes

FRASER, HODDER BENSON, CURTIS CHOSEN TO RACE

Rebecca A. Fraser '46, Virginia M. Hodder '47, Natelle M. Benson '48, and Margaret A. Curtis '48 have been chosen to ski for the Women's College in the 1946 Carnival because of their previous racing experience and for their showing so far this year.

Midd Captain

Miss Fraser, ex-Carnival queen, has been placing high in ski meets for several years. She captained her high school ski team in Woodstock, Vt., as well as Middlebury's team, during the past two years.

Miss Hodder comes from Hanover, N. H., where she was given lessons by Dartmouth's famous ski coach, Walter Prager. When a high school senior, her skiing career was temporarily thwarted by a broken leg, but she has made up more than adequately for this lost time in her two years of skiing at Middlebury.

Miss Benson skied for Middlebury last year, and is a former member of the Big Bromley ski patrol.

National Ski Patrol

Miss Curtis likewise skied on the Bromley patrol, and was also a member of the National Ski Patrol at Sun Valley for two years.

Because of adverse snow conditions, the women's ski team has been unable to hold many practices or to have try-outs for permanent places on the team. However, it is planned to hold these try-outs immediately after Carnival, weather permitting. Practice between now and then will be held on Breadloaf.

In Friday's meet the squad will compete with seven other colleges: Mt. Holyoke, Vassar, U. V. M., U. N. H., Syracuse, Skidmore, and McGill. St. Lawrence will be unable to attend the meet because of a lack of snow on their practice slopes. Stiffest competition will probably be presented by McGill, three of whose skiers having been members of the Canadian National team which skied against the American National team last year. This team will arrive a day early in order to practice on our trail.

Gibson Trophy Race

Middlebury will compete in the Gibson Trophy Race, February 2 and 3, at North Conway, N. H. New members of the team will be taken to this meet for practice. They will be able to use the slope's giant slalom, more than a mile in length.

From December 29 to January 2, Becky Fraser, Polly Hodder, Emily Cushing '47, manager of the women's ski team, Rose F. Hull '47, and Marion O. Merriman '48, had excellent skiing conditions on Pico for a period of general training. All-day workouts were held, including slalom practice.

W.A.A.

Class teams in the women's basketball league were announced Monday and Tuesday by Gloria A. Antolini '46, manager for the basketball season.

Two complete tournament rounds will be played, with each class team playing every other squad twice during their schedule of games. Intramural winner will be announced at the close of the tournament, and later an all-Midd team will be chosen.

DARTMOUTH, UNH EXPECTED TO BE BIGGEST THREAT

Among the ski teams expecting to be represented in this year's Carnival events, Dartmouth and New Hampshire are rated to give the Panthers the most competition. Other teams planning to enter are: The United States Military Academy, University of Vermont, Tufts, Amherst, St. Lawrence, R.P.I., Williams, and Middlebury.

Famed Ski Coach

Dartmouth is under the direction of Coach Walter Prager, one of the nation's outstanding skiers, both as to reputation and ability. He is director of the famed Hanover Ski School, and served with the renowned 10th Mountain Division during the war. The late Bob de Forest, once his foremost threat, took only fourth place in the slalom at the Franconia open meet the week before Christmas vacation.

The United States Military Academy team, coached by Capt. Victor Constant, promises some good material due to compulsory ski training for all plebes. The coach's brother, Cadet Tom C. Constant, captain of the team, is expected to show particularly good form in the combination slalom and downhill.

Norwegian Competition

Jerry Chase is subbing as coach of the University of New Hampshire's team during the absence of Ed Blood who is now in the ski troops. His ace in the hole is Hans Erlinginfinn, an exchange student from Norway, who placed first in the cross-country at Franconia.

Midd Team

Members of the Midd team include: Tom Cremer, captain, "Icky" Fife, Pete McKee, Ed Welles, Dick Bailey, Stu Petrie, and Phil Briggs. The first five, who are old members of the team, will determine our victory or defeat. Fife placed fifth and Cremer seventh in the slalom at Franconia, so both should offer serious competition to our visitors. With its well-balanced team it is possible that the Blue and White may run away with their own Carnival.

Players' Production

A veteran of The Male Animal is Prof. John T. Andrews, who first appeared as the dean in that show. Professor Andrews carries off the lead with ease and appeal.

A fourth member of this same cast, Gladys J. Swift '46, assumes the part of the lovable screwball, Penny (Ma) Sycamore. "Swiftie" has spent a greater part of her four college years at the college playhouse. She has given successful results in every line of drama from make-up and construction to acting and directing.

Playhouse Newcomers

Natalie J. Simpson '47, a newcomer to the playhouse, is playing the ingenue as Alice Sycamore opposite Tony Kirby played by J. David Hunt '48. Previous to his British role in Death Takes a Holiday, Dave was a valuable contributor to college dramatics in the pre-war days.

Another new face, unrecognized in its more swarthy elements, is Ann Curry '46, who drawls out her part as the colored maid, Rheba. The chocolate drop at her side is masqueraded by Morton M. Bass '48. These two blackened visions carry on most realistically.

Outstanding Humorists

Several others who add to the general humor include Jane M. Livsey '49, as the breezy ballerina, Essie. Her husband, the musical Ed, is capably managed by Thomas R. Skelton '49, who made his debut in Death Takes a Holiday. In the same production were Bruno Haas '48, now playing Mr. Kolenkhov, the dancing instructor, and Barbara J. Burris '49, as the Countess Alga, in all her Russian splendour.

Dr. Freeman Returning to Midd; Sailed From Europe January 11

Will Resume Duties Here As Vice-President, Professor

A cablegram has this week been received from Dr. Stephen A. Freeman, stating that on January 11 he was sailing home from France where he has been stationed since June 14, 1945.

Dr. Freeman assisted in recruiting the faculty for the study center at Biarritz, France, during the past summer. In his absence, Prof. Claude C. Bourcier has served as acting chairman of the French department and acting dean of the French summer school. Dr. Freeman is also president of Middlebury's chapter of Phi Beta Kappa. He has traveled extensively and studied abroad at the universities of Lyon and Paris. During part of 1942, until the arrival of Dr. Samuel S. Stratton on January of 1943, he served as acting president of the college.

On Dr. Freeman's return he will resume duties as vice-president of Middlebury College, and as chairman of the French department. He will probably be teaching his former Methods Course as well as other subjects in that department.

Dr. Freeman was granted leave of absence from Middlebury to fulfill an appointment in the Educational Branch of the U. S. Army. He was in charge of all modern language instruction in the Army University Study Centers organized for American soldiers in Europe. Under this program, opportunities were offered servicemen for voluntary college study while awaiting transportation home. Before resuming his duties at Middlebury, Dr. Freeman plans to visit Washington, where he will receive official discharge from his army service.

Charter Studied By Student Life

The constitution of the Student Government of the men's college was discussed, and new recommendations were made at a meeting of the Student Life committee Tuesday, January 8 at 3.30 p.m.

Two new bulletin boards, for all important announcements, were recently placed in Monroe as the latest contribution made by Student Life to the college. At present, the committee is working on a plan to maintain a file of the constitution of every club in college.

CLUB NOTES

Elections were held at the Alchemist Club meeting Tuesday, January 8. Those selected for office are executive committee: Prof. P. Conant Voter, faculty member, and Ann A. Argyle '47, student member; program committee: Prof. Evans B. Reid and M. Jacqueline Simon '47. John E. Gordon '48, was elected press agent.

Music of composers from Wagner to Moussorgsky was played and discussed to show progress towards modern music at the meeting of Tone, Wednesday, January 9. The members approved using treasury funds to buy records for the music studio.

Feature of the Literary club meeting Tuesday, January 15, was a talk by Prof. Reginald L. Cook on Contemporary Literature of all types.

Differences between education in Argentina and the United States were explained by Señor Sergio Bagú at the Spanish Club, Thursday, January 10, at the Spanish House.

According to the Argentine system, the equivalent of our high school is called college, where students spend more time than we do in high school. However, they begin their college at an earlier age, so that the same number of years is spent there as here.

After their college, from which they receive the A.B. degree, they go on to a university, corresponding to our college. Here they study four to seven years depending on the kind of degree desired. Contrasting still further with American universities is the generally higher attendance of women than of men.

against Dartmouth, Williams, UVM, and Norwich. Candidates may also be selected from team members to participate in the NCAA tournament, the New England Intercollegiates or the National Collegiates.

Midd Facilities

Practices and home matches will probably be held at the Rutland Country Club or at the Club in Burlington should facilities not be available at the former. Middlebury's course has been untouched during the war and although repair work will begin in the spring, the course will not be ready for use this season. Middlebury's tennis courts, on the contrary, have been given a medium of care and will be serviceable for matches. The college has thirteen courts in all, eleven on the men's campus and two on the women's. Of this number three are hard surface and ten of regular tennis clay.

Two men now at college, Charles A. Scott '46 and Alan Wolfley '47, were members of the golf squad in '42 before their entrance in the armed forces. Wolfley, outstanding player of the college, has recently been invited as one of fifty men in this country who will compete in the National Amateur Golf Tournament later in the spring. Thomas H. Cremer '48 and Janus C. Lindner '48, also are possible candidates for the new squad. Donald Bates, a member of the '42 team with Wolfley and Scott, may return to college in time to join with the squad.

Employment Bill To Be Discussed At SAA Meeting

The Fair Employment Practices Commission bill, upon which President Truman is urging the nation and Congress to act, will be the topic for discussion at an S. A. A. program on Wednesday, January 23, at 7:30 p.m. It is hoped that an outside speaker from Boston or New York will be present.

Race Discrimination

The bill to be discussed is an effort to curb discrimination in employment because of race, creed or color. The wartime FEPC is almost dead, so the President has asked for permanent legislation with enforcement power. Neither house has acted as yet. A short business meeting has been scheduled for 7 p.m., before actual discussion of the situation begins.

Mr. Sergio Bagu was host to a small group of students representing the S.A.A. at his home Monday, January 14. The group discussed the political situation in his native Argentina. He expressed the opinion that although a large majority of his countrymen are opposed to the Peron regime, it is probable that they will fail in the coming elections, on February 24. The candidate for Peron's opposition is Mr. Tamborini.

Argentine Representative

Mr. Bagu, who is Argentine representative of the U. S. S. A. in this country, suggested that the organization send a resolution to the United States delegation to the U. N. O. urging them not to recognize the present delegate from Argentina. The students present also decided to urge the U. S. S. A. to send a resolution to Argentine students, who are largely opposed to the regime, assuring them of support of their views. It was felt that this was the only action possible to avoid direct intervention. Contact with the Argentine students may be established through Mr. Bagu. He stressed the situation there as being especially important because definite proof exists that plans have been made to establish similar regimes in other South American republics.

Mr. Bagu is a lecturer in the Spanish department here this year and has been a member of the faculty of the Spanish summer school for the past two years. He is an authority on economics and political science.

MIDD VETS HOLD HONORS, MEDALS

Tabulations made by the College Press Office concerning war service of Middlebury veterans give the following statistics:

More than 500,000 combat miles have been flown by Air Corps veterans, with a grand total of 549,461 miles on combat missions in both European and Pacific Theaters of Operations.

Among the collective awards there are 76 battle stars on European Theater ribbons, 17 stars on Asiatic-Pacific ribbons, 53 Air Medal clusters, 10 Distinguished Flying Crosses and seven Purple Hearts.

Five of the students were held prisoners of war in Germany for long periods of time.

Humanities Group Holds Discussion, Shows Films Of Co-operative System

Consumers' co-operatives and their possible benefits to rural sections was the topic of the Humanities discussion presented by Lois B. Southgate '47, Friday night, January 11, in Munroe hall.

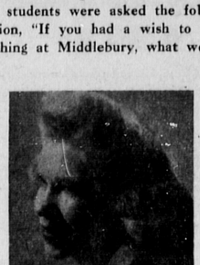
Two sound films, "The Battle Is In Our Hands" and "Here Is Tomorrow" began the program. The first film showed the problem created by the necessity of maintaining the rural standards built up by the war and the government's aim to sustain them in order to avoid a drop in standards such as occurred after a similar economic boost during the last war. "Here Is Tomorrow" was intended to show a possible solution to this problem through the co-operative movement as it has been developed to date.

Prof. Russell G. Sholes explained the functions of co-ops throughout the United States and stressed the need to educate residents of rural areas about them. The co-op freezing plant in Middlebury was cited as a good example of such work.

Students Answer "Spot" Question; "What Would You Change at Midd?"

Jo Buck

Without having a chance to ponder, three students were asked the following question, "If you had a wish to change one thing at Middlebury, what would it be?"



DORIS A. MAZON, "Maizie," Term 7, American Literature major, Newark, N. J.

"Right off hand, I'd abolish chapel. It's been a constant source of irritation since my three and one-half years here. I suppose the logical answer would be sororities, but they're a part of American culture and you'd have to get rid of the Masons and other secret organizations, so it goes beyond Middlebury. Midd is a fine place, a little rural. It would be nice if you could facilitate transportation, make scholarships more liberal and change the attitude of the administration to realize that college students are out of their diapers and should be treated as such—it shouldn't be an institution merely for the prolongment of one's adolescence."

EDWARD B. VALPY, "Big Ed," Term 3, Economics major, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

"The quality of the food is strained. My complaints on the food are shared by most of the Men's College, at least those whom I've talked to. Sometimes this topic replaces girls in the 'bull sessions' and when things are at that stage something is wrong. The coffee is remarkable, almost palatable with cream (milk) and sugar, but otherwise, ugh! There have been enough complaints to cause the Men's Assembly to try and find out what the trouble is. Many men go to the Lodge in the morning to get a fairly decent cup of coffee. Some Fridays the food is pretty good, but at times it's what was called "sewer trout" in school. The poor Catholics who are supposed to eat the fish that's handed out are just out of luck. As for the others, they can go out and get meat, but it means paying twice for a meal. There's no beef on the butter or sugar situation because it's so scarce all over that I consider us lucky to get it when we do."

GLORIA A. GREENLEY, "George," Term 3, English major, Brooklyn Heights, N. Y.

"I'd like to see a broader basis of learning by bringing many more viewpoints into college life—perhaps in extra-curricular activities like the Culture Conference. You could do it through Sunday chapel speakers. We need to get up-to-date on modern things that are actually going on in all fields so we can apply them to studies. It's hard to explain—if we could have more speakers like Frost. Student speakers could do it. People don't know what's going on outside themselves—you can't get it in courses—but we have to keep up on modern trends. We need an active interest in studies rather than a passive one."

Chateau Celebrates "Le Fete des Rois"

"Le Fete des Rois," a traditional French feast, was celebrated at the Chateau, Tuesday afternoon, January 15, with a tea. Although the feast actually falls on January 6, it was celebrated later because students returned to college too late for the regular celebration.

The feast is to commemorate the Epiphany, the day on which the Magi came to adore the Christ child. It is known in English by the name of "Twelfth-night." According to tradition there was also a large decorated cake in which were hidden various favors, which were supposed to tell fortunes. The principal favor is a bean, the holder of which is considered the king. He chooses a queen, while if the bean is received by a woman, she choses a king. When the feast was celebrated at the court of Louis XIV the monarch used to arrange that he would receive the bean. Other favors included a ring and a devil. The cake was baked by Mr. Charles Cutting, chef at the Chateau.

The tea held in the Grand Salon was attended by Mr. and Mrs. Claude C. Bourcier, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ranty, Miss Lea Binand, and all the students living at the Chateau. Miss Binand poured. After the tea Marguerite G. Stern '48, played French music on records.

name under which he described his sister, in another piece of much charm, "Mackery End in Hertfordshire."

With Mary, he wrote a volume of Tales from Shakespeare, the first attempt to introduce children to the greatest of English dramatists, and still the most successful. For adult readers, he collected Specimens of the English Dramatic Poets, a magnificent sampling of the Elizabethans he himself loved, who until that time had been neglected by most readers.

Personality

A man who loved laughter both gentle and hearty, a man of many friends, a man of sensitive critical gifts and tender, humorous imagination, a man haunted by the shadow of madness—he was all of these. From "A Dissertation on Roast Pig" to a discussion of Whist his graceful pen traveled. The whiteness of a band of Quakers and the blackness of the young chimney-sweep alike delighted him, and through his pages delight us.

The constant reader meets new acquaintances yearly, some of whom may become friends. But his older friends go with him from year to year, and become dearer as time goes on. The reader is a richer man if among these he counts the name of Charles Lamb, the self-styled Elia.

NOTICES

Students are reminded of the regulation concerning unexcused absences incurred directly before or directly after a college recess. Carnival weekend is a time at which this rule obtains.

Students are reminded that registration for the second semester must be completed by Saturday noon, February 16, and the usual $50.00 deposit paid by that date.

Carnival Program Presents Student Guide to Weekend

Marie M. Scudder

"Encyclopedia Middleburia" is now being added to the best seller lists of current literature as a student guide to the 1946 Winter Carnival, Middlebury, Vermont—OR—Cinnie and Marge, your "confusion of knowledge" is not a dangerous thing!

Carnival Knowledge

Every field of erudition (hrrumph) is graphically explained, providing it begins with the letter "S." Witness: Spoonerism—"Twas the Kite before Narnival campover the allpus—and not a sterson was purring—not even a pussy cat." As stated in the preface to Middleburia, Winter Carnival Edition, Number XV, "the task of the Editors was to sift the vast store of Carnival knowledge and bring the (non)essential parts in (in)convenient and (un)usable form to each individual student."

Decoration Preview

One even discovers what Carnival Ball decorations will be three days before the dance—"the theme is sort of a—um—, with the ah-er-you know, on one side . . . it all gives the impression of one big sternagoppolis with a franasan cheepledock in the middle." Simply terrific, isn't it?

"Midd stoodents" without this Who's Who in College Carnivals will never know the tender meanings of Sentiment, Shindig, Sex, or Skiagraphy. As for Sovereignty, it might be . . . or may be. . . .

The more serious side of life is treated in "Symphony in D Minus" with Walter Bachtoven thrown in. As the result of the cooperation of eight "scholars, scientists, and experts," Editors Harrison and Proud have immortalized Midd Winter Carnival, 1946.

Barclay '43 Joins Mission to Finland

Mary Barclay '43 sailed for Finland on a relief mission November 19, 1945 on the Fredheim.

Miss Barclay is one of six members of this mission being sent by the American Friends Service committee. The Quaker workers will go to the cities of Rovaniemi and Kemijarvie in Finnish Lapland, where they will assist Suomen Huolto, the official Finnish relief agency in the distribution of needed supplies to the people. Clothing, bedding and shoes collected in this country will be distributed and hot meals will be served to school children. The workers will live in prefabricated barracks shipped in from Sweden, which will also be used as storehouses and welfare centers.

Miss Barclay attended a course offered at Haverford college on the problems of reconstruction.

ON DECK

By Edith Cookish '47 and Elaine P. Jennings '49

For the past few months there has been growing discussion upon the issues involved in the civil strife in China. Public opinion has recently been centered even more upon the Orient because of the resignation of Patrick J. Hurley, ambassador to China, and the charges made upon various members of the State Department. Since there never has been a definite statement regarding our foreign policy in China, and since the American public has never been fully informed of the situation, much criticism has been provoked in regard to this issue.

Nationalists vs. Communists

When the war with Japan was completed, difficulty arose over the question of disarming Japanese troops in China. While the Nationalists maintained that the Japanese troops should be turned over to them, the Communists in China took this opportunity to assert their stand. Moving into Manchuria, they began to disarm the troops, immediately arousing the furor of the Nationalists. Fearing that the Communists intended to establish themselves permanently in Manchuria, the Nationalists began to check them. Since this first incident, China has been in a constant state of agitation. At the present time, both Mukden and Changchun have been captured by the Kuomintang forces, and there are many indications that the Nationalists will gain the upper hand. Nationalist stand has been strengthened not only by her victories on the battle field, but also because of the important decisions in her favor reached by the United States and Russia.

Hurley's Charges

In the United States the situation in China has been forcibly brought before the American public by the recent resignation of Patrick Hurley. His statements concern, generally, our relationship with China and specifically, certain individuals in the State Department, whose tactics have been entirely detrimental to our policy in China. He has accused George Acheson and Robert Service of secret dealings with Yenan forces, and attempts to undermine the United States foreign policy. In addition, Hurley's thrusts have been aimed at the entire State Department in an attempt to procure a clearcut statement of policy from Secretary of State Byrnes. He has claimed, and rightly too, that the State Department has been too uninformative in its dealings with foreign countries, with the result that the public has an inadequate picture of our position in various issues. Mr. Hurley's charges, only the most recent in a long series of complaints, should point out the fact that our State Department has been out-maneuvered on many instances, partly because of the selfishness of various individuals and again, because the public has not been fully prepared to support our stand on these issues. Even though the Hurley question has been dropped by the Senate committee, there still remains a doubt in the minds of many, whether the charges have been completely ungrounded. Byrnes' statement upon this matter has outwardly cleared the air, and has at least defined our broad policies in China.

Russia's Policy

Another vital aspect of this situation to be considered is Russia's policy toward the Chinese Communists. Her stand in this controversy, her aid to the Nationalists in accordance with the Russo-Chinese treaty, should certainly be convincing enough proof of her earnest attempt to crush the suspicion and distrust with which other powers have regarded her. Her stand with the Nationalists has at least been an indication that she does not intend to force Communism where it is not wanted. Within the last few weeks, Russia has actively aided the Nationalists by keeping her forces in Manchuria until the Kuomintang troops arrive. This action has been taken upon the basis of an agreement with Chiang-Kai-shek to postpone the evacuation of her troops until March 2, so enabling the Nationalists troops to establish themselves firmly in Manchuria. This has been a great victory for the Central Government and has decidedly strengthened its claim for national unity.

Communist Position

At this point the Communist position has been considerably weakened in so far as they have lost the major battles in Manchuria and as many of the World Powers have declared themselves her opponents. Whether the National forces will be able to form a strong central government remains to be seen, but at any rate, with the aid of such major powers as Russia and the United States, from this coalition, there should certainly emerge some strong centralized Chinese state.

SOCIAL NOTES

The engagement of Miss Barbara S. Sayre '48, to Mr. Douglas Durkee of Vermont was recently announced. Mr. Durkee, discharged from the Air Forces, is now attending the University of Vermont.

Miss Natalie Simpson '47, has announced her engagement to Walter MacDonald, former member of the Middlebury V-12 Unit.

Alan Wolfley '47, has recently been joined at Middlebury by his wife, the former Joanne Higgins, and his infant son. Both Mr. and Mrs. Wolfley are residing off campus.

MEN'S ASSEMBLY

three representatives from the Women's Student Union for the purpose of revising both the men's and women's constitutions in order that they may be made briefer and brought into parallel alignment.

Financial Report

A later meeting on January 13, 1946, was called for the specific purpose of hearing Mr. Scott present a financial report regarding the Men's Undergraduate Association's financial status. It was reported that a net balance of $835.00 existed. Complaints have been voiced from numerous sources to the Men's Assembly that the acquisition of "M" sweaters is far too easy and consequently their significance has largely been lost. It was suggested that the athletic council be approached on this subject, and that existing rules regarding the awarding of such sweaters be rigidly observed. Mr. Ensinger appointed Bruce Penniman '49, chairman of a committee to investigate and report on this situation. Serving with him will be Walter A. Crowell '49, George F. Wiemann '47, Thomas H. Cremer '48, and Peter Q. McKee '48.

MIDD PLAY

Returning to the stage again is William R. Niederauer '47, who has great appeal in his Donald Meek-like version of Mr. DePinna. The role of a tipsy actress is performed by Nancy E. Breed '48, whose last performance was in the Carnival play of '45.

Still others who contribute to the general hilarity are Laurence F. Williard '49, as Mr. Sycamore, the fireworks-maker, Walter Staloff '49, as the income tax collector, and Jerry Hall '48, Prof. Benjamin Wissler, and Prof. John Holden.

In his usual dual role, Mr. Volkert has managed to shape the set, as well as the characters into a united whole. The demented and unconventional presentation is sure to find popular approval, as the first item in Carnival events.

Bridge Sponsored By Student Unio

Sixty-one dollars were netted at t bridge sponsored by the Student Uni and held Saturday afternoon in For Rec for the benefit of Martin Van Zaa ten, the 12-year-old foster child.

Martin, a Dutch war orphan wh parents were war casualties, is support by the $15 monthly donation from t Student Union. Psychologically up due to his experiences, his condition steadily improving.

Laura-Lee Hopkins '47, was chairm of the affair and committee heads cluded Barbara Morss '48, publici Joan Tyler '48, prizes, and Beatrice O jen '49, refreshments. Among the pri contributed by Middlebury tradesm were stationery, matches, a cook bo and a nailpolish set.

MEN'S UNDERGRAD TO HOLD ELECTIO

With the graduation of Russell P. D '46, president of the Undergraduate A sociation, in February, new elections fill his office have been scheduled for t latter part of this semester with all m from terms seven and eight eligible.

The newly elected president will sume his duties on February 18, and w continue in office until June 17. P liminary balloting will be conducted in t near future and final election will ta place two weeks later on January Such early election will allow the n president to organize his duties bef the start of the new semester and th avoid the weeks of delay in undergra uate activities that occurred at the begi ning of the fall term.

Thirteen senior men have been list as eligible candidates. They are as f lows: Charles R. Bobertz, Philip Brig Alexander W. Calder, Allan J. Co Peter E. Funck, Richard S. Kolakos John W. Laramie, Robert B. Rowl Jacob A. Samenfink, Charles A. Sco Thornton C. Shock, Robert C. Terri and George F. Wiemann.
